BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 11.-James Means. the founder of the Columbian party, has swung his party late line behind Grover Gaveland, although he denies that it was formed for the purpose of booming the ex-President. He thinks it is now such a healthy miant that it can safely be trusted to take care of itself, so be has thrown it upon the tender mercies of the public dressed in its frock, in the hope that it may find favor with the voters. especially in New York State, where it is expected to they a very important role in the coming Presidential election. In a letter to the editor of the Enterprise Mr. Means has explained at length the plans and purposes of the new party. He says:
"From paragraphs which have recently gone

the rounds of the press it might be interred that the Columbian party had been formed to boom Grover Cleveland. I notice that in a recont issue you have reprinted one of these from the Milwaukee Scutinel. That paper, in the article which you quote, says: 'The Colum-bians are committed to the belief that Mr. Grover Cleveland is Pericles, Burke, Pitt, and a few other statesmen rolled into one. Look-ing at the matter from a physical standpoint. his may be true enough, but there are reasons for doubting whether precisely these ingredients have gone to the making of Mr. Cleveland's brain. It is this advocacy of Cleveland which dooms the Columbian party to a

This sort of thing gives the public an erroneous impression as to the tenor and aims of the new party. The Columbians believe that Gleveland is a Columbian in matter of principle, and that the reason he is down now is because he is al-together too good for his party and because he is not in sympathy with the spellsmen and inflationists who control that party. The Columbians also believe that principles are of vastly greater importance than men, and they know that if it should appear that a new party had been formed simply to elevate an individual the spectacle would be ridiculous. If the new party would pin all its with to one man, its life would not be worth living. It is easy enough for politicians to understand Columbian tactics, but a simple avplanation of them may be needed in order to w private citizens just what we are accom plishing. We have been charged with making a row. In reply to this, we remind our critics that this is a free country, and that too much political harmony is a very bad thing for the a row. In reply to this, we remind our critics that this is a free country, and that too much political harmony is a very bad thing for the body politic.

"The Columbian party advocates honest money, low tariff, and the abolition of the spoils existem. Although the number of its members is at present comparatively small, yet that a great advantage over the Republican and Democratic parties, which comes from knowing just what it exists for. The Columbians see that the difference between the two old parties is simply this? The Republican party is animoniously corrupt, and the Democratic party is inharmoniously corrupt. The Columbian party, heing confessedly an antiferency party, naturally turns its attention first to the party in which it finds the most strife and consequent weakness. It seeks to encourage the strife, which it believes will bring good to the nation.

"What is now the condition of affairs in the Democratic party? Clevelandism and the party is controlled by a combination of men who are—well, everybody knows what they are. These men dislike Cleveland. They have knifed him once, and they probably would not healisted to do it again? If they had the chance. They dislike him chiefly because they know that he is a better man than any to be tound among themselves. They dislike to expect the who think that if Cleveland is nominated by the Democratic he will be elected, and that all will be well, as we ought to expect. They say that one must expect too much in these times, and they seem to forget that when Cleveland was in office he was so handicapped by his party that he couldn't carry civil service reform any further than he did without breaking up his party.

ean be done by putting Cleveland back again under his former handicap, and they want it distinctly understood that they will not vote for him unless he signs the declaration of principles of the Columbian party. If he were to sign that the Democrats would have nothing farther to do with him. They do not want honest money or civil service reform. To state the case plainty, we want to see the bad men of the Democratic party threw their best man evertoard. We think that such a separation would be the best thing that could happen. We love Cleveland for the enemies that he has made, and we want to help him all we can to make a great many more enemies. We want to do all we can to emphasize the fact that between Clevelandism and Democracy there is a great made, and that is what is the matter with Clevelandism and that is what is the matter with Clevelandism and a few reform Democrate tween Clevelandism and Democracy there is a great gulf fixed, and that is what is the matter with Cleveland now.

"Mugwumps and a few reform Democrate are having dinners here and there, and they are trying to purge the old party. They may enjoy themselves at dinners, but that is all they can do. The Columbians take a Democratic view of the Republican party and a Republican relew of the Democratic party, so that their opinions of both the old parties are endorsed by many millions of voters. All who believe in honest money, low tariff, and the abolition of the spoils system are invited to join us. There is only one thing in all politics, says Tammany Croker with a sweep of his arm, only one quality that a man has got to have to be successful, and that is grafitude. Things have gone so farnow that the spoils men not only show their gratitude to their followers by rowarding them with the spoils, but they actually have the hardthood to publicly a standard this sort of nonsense? If you ask the average behabition or the average Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he is a Republican or a Democrat to tell you why he to habit. Slagsspeare's line, 'There's small choice tin rotten apples,' is not strong enough to apply to the old parties. There is no cheice in rotten apples, and it is pleasant to receive new proof every day of the fact that the pseulo are fast inding this out. The work of the Columbians is to arouse the voters and to encourage strife among the spoilamen. So far the work has been eminently successful, and it protsies to continue to be so in future, because the Democrats nearly every day furaish us with a fresh supply of campaign material."

CROKER CONFERS WITH M'LAUGHLIN. A Talk About Proposed Amendments to the

Richard Croker had a conference in Brooklyn resterday with ex-Register Hugh Me-Laughila, the manager of the Kings County Democracy. It is understood that the talk was Bemorney. It is understood that the talk was about some proposed amendments to the Ballot law, and that Mr. Creker and Mr. MeLaughlin agreed that there should be some distinguishing mark on the ballots for the guidance of dilterate voters.

Secretary William A. Furey, who is perhaps better assuantied with the working of the new election law than any other man in Brooklyn, gave Mr. Creker the benefit of his views before his return to New York.

ORIO POLITICA

The Men who are Likely to be Delegates to Conumnus, O., Feb. 10.-The indications here are that Hill and Harrison are almost certain to be the candidates for President this year. There will be the hardest kind of a fight in the State Conventions this spring, however, in both parties, over "the big four" who want the honor of being delegates at large to the National Conventions. The Democratic State Convention will be held in this city early in May probably, but there will be more wran-gling than poetry in it. The month of roses will

There is scarcely any doubt that ex-Gov. James E. Campbell will be thosen to head the list of the delegates at large to Chicago, and list of the delegates at large to Chicago, and that Senstor Calvin S. Brice of Lima John R. Molean of Cincinnati, and Alien G. Thurman of Columbus, if he be well enough, will be his associates. Those who are superstitions note that fact that two of them—Thurman and Melean—who were delegates at large eight years ago, voted for the man at Chicago who was elected President that your.

Should Thurman are be apieto go to Chicago there are many othar Democrats who will willingly sacrifice themselves, and some prominent politicians from Cleveland may be chosen, as it will not do to give southern and central Chicago the chosen, as it will not do to give southern and entral Chicago it the homors of this kind. One thing is cartain, however: Ohio is bound to send a Hill delegation to Chicago. Ex-President Cleveland has many warm admirers in Ohio, but even they doubt the wisdom of putting up again a defeated candidate for President and bringing him before the people for a third time.

The man who has accomplished in New York what Seymour and theveland failed to accomplish, viz., made the Empire State Democratic in all its departments, is catilied to and is receiving the entitusiastic support of Democrats everywhere. His able, honest unswerving Democracy commands the respect and admiration of all Oblo Democrats who hate shams and are disgusted with Magwumpery. In the Congress districts it is certain that a majority of the delegates will be for Hill. A majority of the Democratic dailies and weeklies in Oblo are for the New York Senator now, and they are working for him night and day. The bifter, malignant, contemptible abuse of the Republican press is also beiping him.

Benator now, and they are working for him night and day. The bitter, malignant, contemptible abuse of the licenshican press is also helping him.

Now that Blaine has withdrawn from the contest, the Fornker faction of the Republican party is in the dumps. A scheme was on foot, and it would have been successful, foo, to send a solld Blaine delegation to Minneapolis. Now that their idel has declined to be a candidate, they are floundering around, and don't know on whom to unite. Dr. Probas, Secretary of the State Board of Health, an appointee of Foraker's, voiced the sentiment of that faction when he said: "I'm sorry that Blaine has declined; that mans the renomination of Harrison. We can't carry any Southern State, that is sure, and Harrison will lose New York if Hill runs. Our chances look pretty slim now. Unless the Democratic Congress does some foolish thing, or the Democratic National Convention puts a free silver plank in its platform, I am afraid we are beaten."

It is safe to predict that Gov. McKinley will be chosen by acclamation to lead the Republican hosts to Minneapolis, and some of the great protectionist's friends say that he will head the national ticket. The four delegates at large will be most likely, Gov. Mckinley, Secretary of the Treasury Foster. Senator Sherman, and ex-Gov. Foraker. Auditor of State Poe, and the Hon. William Hahn, it is said, are eandidates, and they may be selected by the Convention. Foster will, of course, exert all his powers as a politician and organizer to have Ohio in line for Harrison. This year the Buckeye State will not have a candidate, when McKinley approximated in the Alexandra processed the opinion that Harrison would be consistent in such an event, which is not always the case. In an interview to-day, McKinley, expressed the opinion that he aid in his letter of declination.

Alger, Cullom, and Lincoln have friends or but if Harrison is not nominated by acclamation or on the first ballot, it is more than likely that the Ohio delegation will break and go to McKinl

DIDN'T TRAP MARYLAND DEMOCRATS.

M: Maed Decidedly to the Legislature, Awaipores. Feb. 11.-Mr. Laird's resolution endorsing the Mills bill and the Cleveland idea of tariff reform came up in the House of Dele-mates as the special order of the day this afternoon. It was introduced last week, and, after a lively debate, its consideration was postponed until to-day. In the mean time many of the members had been convinced that they were being misled by those who claimed to have offered the resolution in good faith, and they quietly prepared a rider which would vitiate the effect of the original resolution. When, therefore, the latter was read to-day Mr. Sams of Baltimore submitted the following amendment:

"And be it further resolved, I lat in dealing with tariff reform this House has entire confidence in the judgment and ability of the Senators and Representatives in Congress from Mayviand whose views are known to be in tors and Representatives in Congress from Maryland, whose views are known to be in accord with the true Democratic sentiment of their country."

In other words, if the Maryland delegation in Congress does not favor radical tariff legislation, the Democrats in the State submit to their better judgment. Every Maryland Domocrat in the House voted for Mr. Crisp against Mr. Mills. Senator Gibson, in an interview yesterday, declared the resolution untimely and ill advised. Senator Gorman's views on the tariff are known to be different from those entertained by Mr. Cleveland. Some of the speakers to-day said that without the amondment they would not vote for the resolution. The amendment was then carried unanimously, and the original resolution as amended then went through without a division. Everybody is pleased with the result except the Mugwump organs, which have been trying to foster discord by making capital of the move.

THE UNION CLUB'S SEARCH FOR A SITE. Their Committee Suggests Two Locations

At a meeting of the Union Club last night the committee appointed to look for a suitable site for the new club house reported that after a thorough investigation they had found that there were but two desirable locations in the city that could be purchased. Those are the St. Luke's Hospital property and the Stevens property in Fifth avenue and Thirty-sixth street. After hearing the committee's report the club adjourned for two weeks to enable the committee to have the report printed and circulated, and to give all members an opportunity to consider the matter.

HR HAS ALWAYS PAYORED A VIA DUCT ROAD FOR NEW YORK.

He Tells of the Great Spacess of the Sys-tem in Berlis-The Commission Wanted the New York Central to Extend Their Road Down Fourth Avenue.

William Steinway, President of the Rapid Transit Commission, approves the plan for open-air rapid transit proposed in THE SUN on Sunday, which was for a road over the present tunnel in Park avenue, from Fortyviaduct, with storehouses at Forty-second tween Third and Second avenues, and thence down in as straight a line as possible on the same structure to the City Hall. Above Fortysecond street a more practicable plan canno be suggested, he says, and he believes that if the New York Central Railroad Company will be carried out, and the scheme for the very bad underground structure will be dropped, so far as the east side is concerned.
Mr. Steinway has one objection to the plan below Forty-second street. He thinks it will be too costly. That objection need not worry mates that have been made make the cost of the immense viaduet proposed considerably less than the cost of the underground road. The underground road on the east side had been recommended by the Commission, he said in effect, simply because there was no other practical plan presented to the Commissioners. Since the proposal of this plan in THE SUN there is not that excuse to permit the underground-scheme to continue to exist.

"A viaduot," said President Steinway, "Is part of my cherished idea, an ideal system of rapid transit. I have been in Berlin a great deal, and when I was there the last time in July and September, 1890, I made a study of the rapid transit system. I made as many as twenty-five trips over the road there for the purpose of investigation, and I returned strongly in favor of the system. In addition to the other beauties of the system there they had successed in deadening the noise to such an extent that at the Zoölogical Garden, 250 feet from the Pottsdam depot, where express trains were continually rushing by and way trains stopping and starting every minute, the fifth symphony of Beethoven was performed and not a note of the music was lost. The noise of all the trains passing was not as great as the noise that is made by a single New York street car without any bells. The road is nine miles long and is magnificent in every detail. The stations are about a mile apart, with splendid approaches and no possibility of accidents. Trains that carry 500 people are run every two minutes, and are unloaded and loaded again in ten seconds without any push-When I returned to America I was ap-

"When I returned to America I was appointed to the Rapid Transit Commission, and after some hesitation accepted. I was so thoroughly impressed with the viaduet system that I could see no other that would be satisfactory to New York, and I did all that I could to have it adopted. The Commission partook of my enthusiasm, and we set out with the idea that if we could possibly make the viaduet system we would do it. We found it a physical impossibility to establish the system on the west side down town with only four streets, two of which were already occupied by elevated railroads. We know that we must have four tracks, two for local and two for express trains. We found that in the mile between the Battery and the City Hall we would have to destroy $30,000,000 worth of property if we followed the street line of Broadway.

"My own idea for the east yide is to use Fourth or Park avenue all the way down. That was intended as a railroad avenue. In 1850 10 feet was added to the width of the street to make it suitable for the road Tars Sus suggests. It is in the centre of the city. The street is 140 feet wide. A four-track railroad, not to exceed 42 feet in width, would leave nearly 50 feet of roadway on either side. The poople who own property there bought knowing that the street was dedicated to railroad uses practically. I struggled hard to have the road put in that avenue, and I am free to say that if the New York Central people had come before and Commission our purpose was to extend to them the right to fidth their road down to the City Hall or to the Battery. When we can to investigate the matter we found that the Harlem and the Hudson River road asked for by the Commission of the Central road select dropt the Commission of the Central road select dropt the Commission of the Central road asked for by the Commission? Was asked. pointed to the Rapid Transit Commission, and road we could do nothing, and so had to seek some other routs."

"Was the cooperation of the Central road asked for by the Commission?" was asked.

"Well, not directly," answered the President. "Indirectly, we understood that they would have nothing to do with the scheme, but the proposition was never made directly to them, nor did we have any direct communication from them. It was not our business to make application to them, but theirs to make application to them, but theirs to make application to The Commission Loan asked. application to us.

make application to them, but theirs to make application to us. The Commission, I can say, was not only ready but anxious to hear from them."

In addition to the objection of the cost of the plan proposed in The Sun for the road south of Forty-second street. Mr. Steinway said that he thought the cast side was reasonably well supplied with rapid transit by the Second and Third avenue roads. Assuming that rapid transit was for people who live in the lower part of the city, that would be true. But ranid transit is for the paople up town, and the Third and Second avenue lines do not even give as rapid transit for those people as do the Sixth and Ninth avenue lines do not even give as rapid transit for those people as do the Sixth and Ninth avenue lines on the west side. About the cost of the road proposed above Forty-second street. Mr. Steinway said that it would certainly cost less than one-third the amount that would be required to construct the underground road. He did not think there could be any objection to the running of such a road on account of the noise. He was satisfied that such a road could be made as noiseless as is the road in Berlin.

"The underground scheme is practically dead already." Said Engineer Katte to a Sun reporter on Wednesday evening. "Whatever possessed any body of men to think that it would be a success or that capitalists would stop forward and produce from $50,000,000 to $150,000,000 to carry it out. I don't see. It is not feasible to my mind."

Mr. Katté explicion is that of the capitalists of New York. The Sun reporter has talked with several men who are always ready to invest their money in railroad schemes when there is any show of a roturn for it. They say they will have nothing to do with it. A fabulous amount of money would be required, and even if the road carried all the people there are now, or there will be in the next ten years to carry, a fair refurn for the money invested would not be obtained. These same capitalists express a case to to invest in such a coud as was sug gineers who are not employed by the Commis-sion say it is not likely the road could be built for that sum.

It is pretty certain that, if capitalists cannot be interested in the scheme, an effort will be made to saidle the thing upon the city, and to raise by taxation or by bonding the money required to build the road.

The Shifts of the Week by Familiar Plays

The week's changes at the combination theatres have failed to show any new play, and in actors no face newer than that of the son of Emmet. This actor has revived "Fritz in Iroland," at the Windsor. The first Emmet never had more loyal admirers than were wont to applaud him when he visited the Bowery. The on's boyish appearance and conscientious ondeavors have won friends for him, and he has gained applause that seemed spontaneous and sincere. But he is mechanical, labored, and old in scenes where his father was graceful.

Harlem's two theatres are having fun of two kinds. At the Opera House, admirable performances of "Niobe" are given a spiendid house. The Broadway verdict of a reasonable success is emphasized in Harlem. Isabella Coe's Niobe is a graceful and picturesque-personation, dainty in its unconscious humor, and in all ways effective, without being unreasonable. At the Columbus "Aunt Bridget's Baby" shows no loss of the grotesque comicality which distinguishes this variety farce. The clearinous humor of George W. Nellie Rosebud's chipper manner and frisky legs still do their share toward the entertainment.

HUSBAND 18, WIFE 17.

Ludwig C. Schneider, the 18-year-old son of George W. Schneider, the sexton of the Lutheran Church in Herkimor street, has begun a suit in the City Court, Brooklyn, for the an nulment of his marriage with Mary F. Schnelder the 17-year-old daughter of Widow Ella L. Belagh of 731 Gates avenue. The young couple were married by the Rev. Mr. Herald, a Luthoran minister, on Oct. 31, 1850, after a three weeks' acquaintance. Mrs. Beiagh has charge of her daughter's young son.

Schneider now says that he drank so much champagne just before the ceremony that he did not know what he was about, and that he only considered the marriage as a joke, and was dumfounded when he was confronted with Paster Herald's certificate. He also intimates in his affidavit that his was the second mock marriage in which the defendant had taken part as one of the principals. Mrs. Schneider says the marriage was in dead carnest.

Faster Harold's story is that the boy was a refectly sober when the ceremony was performed, and that he said under eath that he had obtained the consent of his parents. Young Schneider, it is said, is still infatuated with the girl, and would live with her but for his parents' interference.

New Indictment Against E. M. Field. The Grand Jury added another indictment sterday to the four already pending against Edward M. Field. The new indictment charges Field with forgery in the second degree in forging on Nov. 16, 1891, a bill of lading purporting to represent the shipment of 71.282.66 porting to represent the shipment of 71.282.66 bushels of wheat by the steamship Dolcott, P. Moore, master, for Cork or Queenstown. The complainant was John B. Harris, Jr., representative of the Morchants' Bank of Canada, and Mr. Harris's testimony before the Grund Jury was supplemented by that of Brokors F. W. Houghton, D. M. Carbello, and Dr. J. B. Cropsley, Field obtained $38.000 upon the forged bill of lading, and it is understood that the Merchants' Bank of Canada was a sufferer to that extent. Field will probably be taken from Ludlow street jail on Monday to plend to all of the indictments.

His foot caught in the draw a coupling pin. His foot caught in the frog and he was swept down to the ground by the ears. His left leg was broken at the knes, the instep of the left foot was fractured, the right leg, right arm, right hip, and the pelvio bone were fractured, and his spine was broken. He was only 10 years old, had only been em-ployed by the krie five months, and died on a passenger train in this city en route for home.

A Jury Obtplued to Try Stevenson. A jury was obtained yesterday in the Gen-eral Sessions, before Judge Martine, to try Thomas Stevenson, the reputed proprietor of "The blide." at 157 Bleecker street, indicted for keeping a disorderly house. Then the trial was adjourned until to-day. CUT OFF HIS SON WITH $50. PATRICK J. BURKE'S WILL CONTESTED BY HIS SON, WILLIAM K.

The Old Man Took a Third Wife in Helte of the Son and Turned the Son and the The-sire Parties Out of Sis House Afterward. Patrick J. Burke died in this city on Sept. 8 last, leaving an estate worth about $100,000. The whole of his fortune except $50, given to his only son, William E. Burke, he left to his third wife, to whom he was married six months will on the ground that his father was not of sound mind when he made it or when he mar-

William E. Burke is about 35 years old. was a deputy sheriff under Grant, and is a member of the Narragansett Club. His mother died when he was young, and his father's second wife, Mrs. Ellen Burke, always evinced a great fondness for him. Burke and his wife Ellen lived in a large house at 44 West Sixtleth street. The wife was taken sick in May, 1890, and the son with his wife, a daughter of Dave Brahum, leader of Harrigan's orchestra, and sister-in-law of Ned Harrigan, moved into the house to look after the old lady in her illness. Mrs. Ellen had about $150,000 in her own right, and she left it all to the son.

After Ellen's death-so Mr. Severance, Bourke Cockran's partner, who is counsel for the de-fence, says, the old man told him-William and his wife took possession of the house, although it belonged solely to the old gentleman. The young folks took the best rooms and moved him up stairs. They invited all their theatrical friends around to the house and had what the old gentleman called "theatrical jiggers" almost every night in the week. Finally he left the house and went to live in one of his flats. He became acquainted with Mra. Della Duffy, a widow with some money and several children, and wanted to marry her. Mrs. Duffy was willing, and the ceremony was arranged to take place in the house of Father Hopper of St. Paul's Church on Jan. 15, 1821.

The old man was then over sixty years of was willing, and the ceremony was arranged to take place in the house of Father Hopper of St. Paul's Church on Jan. 15. 1851.

The old man was then over sixty years of age and Mrs. Duify about forty. William took steps to prevent the marriage, alleging that his father was not of sound mind and not lit to contract a marriage. The bridal couple and the friends were assembled in the priest's house, and the knot was about to be fied, when Father Burke appeared, and after some general talk. Father Hopper thought it best to adjourn the ceremony while he made some investigations. He has made a deposition in regard to the matter, in which he says that he did not find that the man was insane, and therefore that he could not refuse to perform the ceremony. So the couple were married three days later.

This proceeding of William's angered the old man, and he set about putting his son out of the Sixtieth street house. He saw Mr. Severance about it, and got the son out by dispossors proceedings. He lived there until his death. In his will he says that William is "amply provided for in Elien's will, and moreover is well able to take care of himself." Lawyer Severance drew up the will, and he avers that the old man was of perfectly sound mind, and had the reputation of being a shrewd, sharp man.

Mr. Howers of Platt & Bowers, lawyer for the son, was not at his office yesterday, but it was learned that he will try to show by plenty of witnesses that the old man was not of sound mind by any means, and will refute most of the opposition testimony, it is alleged that shortly after his second wife's death old Mr. Burke visited the Cremorne Garden and the girls took all the money he had and got him to sign a check for a large amount, for which amount he was afterward sued.

The case will come before the Surrogate next Monday in order to have a day fixed for trial.

MOST OF THE TRAIN IN THE RIVER. Derailed Freight Cars Break Down a Bridge

AYER JUNCTION, Mass., Feb. 11 .- A freight train loaded with beef, hay, grain, and live hogs was derailed on the bridge over the Nashua River about two miles from here this morning, and almost the entire train went into the river, carrying the bridge with it. D. G. Connor, the conductor, went down and was lost. Twenty cars dammed the river and caused a great rise of the water. Both tracks were blocked throughout the day.

A POLICE STATION ACROSS THE WAY. But the Burgiars Worked as Long as They Liked and Went Away Undisturbed.

George Poole & Son's lamp and oil store at 70 and 72 Fulton street, Brooklyn, was visited on Wednesday night by burglars who wanted neither coolness nor audacity, for the green lamp in front of the lower Fulton street police station burned brightly just opposite the store. It was from the cheap and crowded lodging house at 74 Fulton street that the burgiars descended upon the store. Making their way to the roof of the lodging house the passed to the adjoining building and opening the scuttle went down stairs to the office. There they attacked the big safe with cold chisels and other tools, but after cutting off the knob and ripping out a part of one side, found they had tackled too big a job. So they took $2 from the money drawer and returned to their quarters in the longing house. The incident entirely escaped the vigilance of the incident entirely escaped the vigilance of the police officials across the way, and Capt. Eason was surprised and indignant when the first clerk who arrived at the stors notified him of the occurrence. Inquiry at the lodging house failed to reveal any cine to the identity of the burglars. The Captain will summon the two patrolmen who were on duty in front of the store during the night to explain their negligence in failing to discover that something unusual was going on. the scuttle went down stairs to the office
